MANAGING EDITOR

Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Thank you for your comments on my speech at the World Press Institute.

If I interpret your last paragraph correctly, you feel that questions about the assassination of President Kennedy have not been duly exposed in the press. We have given considerable attention to these questions in The New York Times, although perhaps not as much as the critics of the Warren Commission would have liked. The latest example of our coverage in this area is enclosed.

Sincerely,

Clifton Daniel
